THE ULSTER SITUATION

A PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT

Reuter's
[Service to the "Telegraph."]
London, Received Sept. 24.

Unionist papers are devoting much space to the proceedings in Ulster.

Sir Edward Carson and General Richardson met the Unionist members of the House of Commons at Captain Craig's house, at Belfast, yesterday evening to discuss the establishment of a provisional government which, it is expected, will be announced at a meeting of five hundred delegates of the Ulster Unionist Council to-day.

Inspecting the Regiments.
On Saturday Sir Edward Carson will inspect fourteen Belfast regiments, each 800 strong, with complete commissariat, signalling and ambulance units. General Richardson will be the Officer Commanding, and will be accompanied by his staff.

A feature of the display will be the unfurling of the largest Union Jack in the world, and instead of a general salute there will be three cheers for the Union.

Radical Views.

The Radical papers describe the proceedings as Sir Edward Carson's last desperate effort to smash the Home Rule Bill, and declare that the manufacturers of Belfast are alarmed at his reckless speeches, fearing that the labour troubles prevailing in Dublin may be echoed at Belfast, where the situation would be most serious with the populace armed with rifles and revolvers.

A Bit of Training.
Mr. F. E. Smith has returned from Ulster to take up his duties on General French's staff at the manoeuvres as a lieutenant of Yeomanry.

No New Decision.

London, Received Sept. 25.
The Westminster Gazette in a long statement referring to the remarks in yesterday's Evening Standard and Pall Mall Gazette, says that it may of course be taken for granted that the political situation has been discussed by public men who met at Balmoral and elsewhere, but that there has been no meeting of the Cabinet and no necessity for any new decision on the part of the Government, for ministers are of the opinion that the door has always been and is still open for the fullest deliberation of every aspect of Home Rule.

Cordial Relations.
The Westminster Gazette, emphasises the cordial relations which exist between Nationalists and Liberals, and says that the latter will not countenance any action which might betray the cause of the Irish party.

It concludes by assuming that if Unionists desire peace they will find some method of dealing with the Ulster situation which will prevent its blocking a policy of conciliation.

The Ulster Conference.

London, Received Sept. 25.
Five hundred Ulster delegates met in the Ulster Hall, Belfast, Sir E. Carson, and Lord Londonderry drove up, attended by a body guard of motor-cyclists, The Duke of Abercorn, Captain Craig, and many peers were present.

The Conference finally approved of the articles of the Provisional Government. Financial, legal, education, customs, excise, post offices, and volunteer force committees were appointed. The standing committee of the Ulster Unionist Council was appointed the Executive, with Sir Edward Carson as chairman and the Rt. Hon. J. H. M. Campbell, Attorney-General of Ireland since January 1, 1905, as the assessor.

PROCEEDINGS PRIVATE.

Reuter's
[Service to the "Telegraph."]
London, Received Sept. 25.

The details will be published on the day Home Rule becomes law. The largest Union Jack in the world was spread on the platform. Lord Londonderry opened the proceedings which were conducted within closed doors. An official statement was issued afterwards.

Trouble Either Way.

Addressing the Ulster conference, Sir Edward Carson said they must recognise that two hostile parties were face to face. If Home Rule were not carried, there would be trouble in the South; if it were carried, there would be trouble in the North. Great Britain, must be accepted as the arbiter between the parties. All the artifices of politicians and the subtleties of radical pressmen could never convert what was essentially loyalty into treason. If there was disgrace in the fight before them, it was not a disgrace to Ulster but to the men who, for their own base purposes had driven them into their present position. They had no right to take that step to-day, with its possible consequences if they had not exhausted every means to bring the Government to a real sense of the problem and its dangers.

ULSTER PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT.

Preparations to Meet Home Rule.

Belfast, August 20.—The arrangements for the meetings of the Ulster Unionist Council next month were completed to-day at a meeting of the standing committee of the Council. Mr. Gent S. Clark presided, and the attendance included Lord Kilmorey, Lord Clanwilliam, Captain James Craig, M.P., Mr. Robert Thompson, M.P., Mr. Hugh T. Burrow, M.P., Mr. William Moore, K.C., M.P., Major McCalmont, M.P., Sir James Henderson, Lieutenant-Colonel T. V. P. McCammon, Major F. H. Crawford, Captain Frank Hall, and Colonel H. P. Doran.

The standing committee decided to hold a special meeting of the Ulster Unionist Council on September 24 and 25 in the Ulster Hall. In addition to this meeting there will be a meeting of the Irish Unionist Parliamentary Party on September 23, and committee meetings of the Ulster Unionist Council on September 19, 22, 23, 29, and 30. All these meetings, it is understood, will have reference to the establishment of the Ulster Provisional Government should the Home Rule Bill become law.

It is announced that Mr. F. E. Smith, K. O. M.P., will accompany Sir Edward Carson on his approaching visit to Ulster and will speak at a number of demonstrations, attended by the Ulster volunteer force, at Killeel, Newry, Banbridge, Dromore, and Antrim.—Times.

Sir Frank de Rutzen.
Sir Frank de Rutzen, whose engagement to Emmeline Augusta, daughter of Sir Albert and Lady de Rutzen, was announced on August 22, is the eldest son of the first baronet, who founded the well-known publishing firm of George Newnes, Ltd. In 1899, when 28 years old, Sir Frank became a director of the firm, succeeding to both the chairmanship and the baronetcy on his father's death in 1910.

OFFICER ATTACKED

ABYSSINIAN OUTRAGE.

Reuter's
[Service to the "Telegraph."]
London, Received Sept. 25.

Reuter's correspondent at Nairobi states that, following the murder of Captain Aylmer, Lieutenant Jones, of the King's African Rifles, has been wounded at Kutol, Lake Rudolf, presumably by Abyssinian ivory hunters. Troops were already on the way before the news was received.

[On June 6, Reuter stated that the "African World's" correspondent at Nairobi reported that Captain Aylmer, of the King's African Rifles, and an Abyssinian Frontier Inspector had been shot dead by an Abyssinian elephant poacher on the Northern frontier.]

MR. ABE'S SUCCESSOR.

London, Received Sept. 25.

Mr. Chozo Koike has left London for Tokyo, via Siberia, to succeed Mr. Abe. He is due early on November 11, and will enter on his duties the same day. The staff of the Embassy and a large and representative gathering of Japanese had him farewell at the station.

[Mr. Moritomo Abe, Director of the Political Bureau of the Foreign Office, was attacked on September 5 by two assassins while entering his residence after returning from Shimbashi, where he had been to welcome Mr. Ijima, late ambassador at Peking. He died next morning.]

WELL-KNOWN ENGINEER

SAILING FOR AUSTRALIA.

London, Received Sept. 24.

Sir Maurice Fitzmaurice, the eminent engineer, is sailing for Australia to investigate, on behalf of the Commonwealth, the question of naval docks and bases from an engineering standpoint.

BALKAN FIGHTING.

A DETERMINED BATTLE.

Reuter's
[Service to the "Telegraph."]
London, Received Sept. 24.

Reuter's correspondent at Belgrade says it is officially announced that there was a determined battle, lasting two hours, between Albanians and two companies of Serbian troops at Dibra on the 22nd instant.

The Serbians withdrew towards Rethovo. The Albanians are six thousand strong.

Reservists Called Out.

London, Received Sept. 25.
Reuter's correspondent at Belgrade states that two regiments of reservists have been called out and that the railway is wholly reserved for military traffic.

From Sofia, Reuter's correspondent reports that Serbian troops and Turkish Bashis Bazuks are attacking the Bulgarian frontier posts in the Strumitza district.

Servia and Montenegro Join.

Reuter's correspondent at Cetinje states that Servia and Montenegro, acting jointly, are warding off Albanian incursions into Montenegro and have sent sixty men of each battalion to Diakova.

Bourse Depressed.

Later.

Reuter's correspondent at Vienna states that the Bourse is much depressed by the Albanian complications and the Serbian military preparations.

Reuter's correspondent at Sofia states that the Government has presented a note of the Russian Legation complaining of the reign of terror created by the Servians in Macedonia.

THE DUBLIN STRIKE.

PROVISIONS SENT.

London, Received Sept. 24.

The Trades Union Congress has decided to send a shipload of provisions to Dublin at a cost of £5,000, to aid the strikers.

OLYMPIC GAMES.

WHAT OF GOLF?

London, Received Sept. 24.

The Royal and Ancient Golf Club has disapproved of the inclusion of golf among the Olympic games.

An Old Story.

A love drama 200 years old has been unearthed among the historical manuscripts left by Viscount Molesworth, who died in October, 1758, and who was a well-known soldier of that day. A certain Lady Florence wrote to the vicar with blood drawn from her own veins, and said: "Here with my blood I confirm that I will always be constant, not loving anybody but you, who are my real god."

Alleged Murder in Manila.

While walking through the dark alley between the building of the Captain of the Port's and the Pilote's Association, on the Manila waterfront, the other night Gabino Sylvestre, a Filipino steward on the Ispahan steamship, Governor Forbes, was stabbed in the heart and face by unknown assailants. The body was found about nine o'clock, and at the time it appeared as though it had lain on the sidewalk for about half an hour.

POSTMEN'S DEMANDS.

AN INTERESTING MANIFESTO

Reuter's
[Service to the "Telegraph."]
London, Received Sept. 24.

The Postal employees have issued a manifesto in reply to the statement made by the Post Office in the 22nd instant. It denies that the recommendations of the Committee will involve an expense of one million pounds yearly, and declares that more than a decade will be incurred.

Mean and Untrue.

The manifesto says that it is mean and untrue to suggest that the recommendation will cause additional taxation, and exhorts the public to remember that the present discontent is not the work of the leaders, who counselled moderation but were overruled by an overwhelming vote of the members of the Parliamentary Committee.

All-round Increase Wanted.

Later.

At a conference of telegraph and postal clerks held at Liverpool it was resolved to instruct the Executive immediately to agitate for an all-round increase of wages commensurate with the increased cost of living. Failing a satisfactory reply within six weeks, the conference will be again convoked to consider further action.

THE PEARL NECKLACE.

Five Men Arrested in London.

Five men were arrested in London on September 2, as stated in our wire of that date in connection with the theft of the valuable pearl necklace, which has been a mystery for some weeks past.

The men were brought up at Bow-street Police Court the following day by Mr. Graham Campbell. Evidence of arrest was given, and the prisoners were remanded.

The men's names and descriptions are:—James Lockett, 51, jeweller, Pines-gardens, Golder's Green; Joseph Grizzard, 46, diamond merchant, Parkholm Road, Dalston; Simon Silverman, 41, Austrian subject, diamond broker, Benworth Road, Bow; Louis Gutwirth, 39, Austrian subject, diamond broker, Petherton Road, Canonbury; and Daniel McCarthy, 32, independent, Northampton Street, Clerkenwell.

Mr. Williamson said that the prisoners were all arrested on the previous day, and he proposed to offer formal evidence at present and then to ask a remand.

Chief Inspector Ward stated in reply to Mr. Williamson that on July 18 last he received information of the robbery of a pearl necklace while in transit between Paris and Hatton Garden, and he and other officers had since been making inquiries into the matter. At 3.30 p.m. on Monday he saw two men who would be called later as witnesses. Gutwirth and Lockett were standing outside the station and he watched them walk up a narrow turning by the side of the station. At 10.30 on the following morning he saw Grizzard, Lockett, Silverman and the other two men he had referred to enter the same station and disappear.

The witnesses went on to say that at a given signal Detective-sergeants Cooper, Cornish, Goodwillie, and Hayman, and other officers followed the men he had indicated into the station and presently returned with them. All five were taken to the station and the prisoners were then searched and told that they would be detained. Neither of the men made any statement when they were arrested. Later on, Gutwirth was brought to Bow-street by Detective Worth.

At midnight Grizzard, Lockett, Silverman, and Gutwirth were formally charged. They said nothing in reply. At 1.30 p.m. on Tuesday the witness visited the George public house, Brook Street, and there saw McCarthy. In consequence of what he was told by Detective Soden he conveyed McCarthy in a cab to Bow Street and there told him that he suspected him of being concerned with other men in stealing and receiving a pearl necklace, value £150,000. At that time he did not know its real value. McCarthy said, "I know nothing about it. All I did was to take a bunch of flowers to the public house for Gutwirth, whom I have known only five weeks. He told me the day previous that his child was ill, so I took him some flowers." McCarthy had in his possession four £5 notes and £30 5s. in cash. Asked to account for his possession of this money, he said, "It is all mine. I have just sold two houses for £500. I have also received compensation for an injury." The witness asked him where he obtained the notes and money and he replied, "I received them in exchange for two 500l. French notes on Saturday last at Cook's, Ludgate Hill. The French notes I got from a Continental gentleman, whose name I decline to give. I heard them talking at Hatton Garden about some diamonds and volunteered to change the notes." In addition to the notes and money, the witness found a letter on McCarthy. In consequence of his statement he detained him until that morning when, as a result of his inquiries, he performed a charge against him. When the charge was entered he remarked, "All I can say is that I am innocent."

The witness then produced lists of the property found on the other prisoners, and, at the request of Mr. Osborn, the Magistrate read the lists, which were as follows:—

On Lockett—Two £50 Bank of England notes, seven £10 notes, 32-45 notes (total £330), and £25 10s. in cash.
On Grizzard—£1 13s. 11d. in cash, and watch and chain, two tie pins, two diamond rings, a set of jeweller's weights and scales, jeweller's gauge, a pearl and diamond stud, a jeweller's eyeglass, three small portions of pearls in leather card-case, a stick of sealing wax, five railway tickets, dated September 2, 1913, between British Museum and Oxford Circus, four half railway tickets, and other small articles.

On Silverman—Eight 1,000l. French notes, four £5 Bank of England notes, £10s. 7d. in cash, a jeweller's scoop, a gauge, a contract note with Messrs. Harvey and Thompson, pawnbrokers, Leather Lane.

On Gutwirth—Six rings, £2 13s. cash, a watch and chain, a receipt for parcel of brilliants, a bill for £40, a pawnbroker's contract note for £50, and two parcels containing several small stones.

The witness mentioned that he had also taken possession of other property not enumerated on those lists.

On this evidence the prisoners were remanded, an application for bail being refused.

Decay of Suffragism.

This, however, by no means signifies that the movement for women's suffrage is dead in England. Quite the contrary is the case. The London Daily Chronicle announces "the formation of the first Liberal organization founded solely for the extension of the suffrage to women."

Henceforth these workers, and those Liberal women throughout the country who agree with them, will refuse to regard a candidate as a Liberal candidate who is opposed to women enjoying political freedom, and will not assist his return to Parliament.

The new movement will receive a large measure of support, and is calculated to help candidates who have an "open mind" on votes for women to come to a definite decision.

Carlism in Ireland.

Anything, therefore, that will overcome the present discord and will serve to check party strife and the undoubted drift to civil war and rebellion should be invoked, and for this, if for no other reason, Lord Loreburn's suggestion for a conference between leading statesmen of both parties is most timely. It is true that there are many objections to such a meeting, but the consensus of opinion is that an attempt should be made although lasting results or benefits are improbable. A conference would at least serve to provide an opportunity to the parties to meet on neutral ground and to gauge each other's opinion and views. The question involved in the present state of affairs in Ulster far transcends mere party considerations, and a satisfactory settlement is vital to the prosperity of Great Britain. With a start to reconciliation effected the formative effects of time may be relied upon, but the outstanding need of the moment is something that will provoke a general expression of opinion, and there is "probably no surer means of securing this than the arrest of Sir Edward Carson and his trial for incitement to rebellion.

all this is vastly entertaining, but

The Japanese mission, which is now in Europe studying aviation, composed of Captain Yamaji and Lieutenants Khono, Inonji, and Nakajo, of the Japanese Navy, arrived at Deauville on 27th ult., and were to remain until the conclusion of the hydro-aeroplane meeting. They will then proceed to England, subsequently returning to Japan through the United States.

Mono-Railways.

The projected tube railway from the Strand to the Crystal Palace, is designed on the mono-rail principle, i.e. the cars run on a single line of rails. Several mono-railways are already in existence, including an elevated line between Elberfeld and Barmen, in Germany, and the extraordinary little Listowel and Ballyvaughan Railway in Ireland. The system which has also been proposed for improving communication between Liverpool and Manchester, is thought by some engineers to represent the high-speed railway of the future.

A Timely Protest.

A timely protest is made by Mr. S. Takahata in the columns of a London morning contemporary concerning a glaring anomaly in the Siberian mail route to which we have frequently called attention in the columns of this paper. A good many other people besides Mr. Takahata want to know why, if it is possible to send printed matter from the East via Siberia at the reduced fee, it should not be equally possible for the European post offices to arrange similar facilities on this side for the outward mail to the East via Siberia. The Siberian route being the shortest and the quickest means of conveyance between the West and the East, the question of being able to send printed matter is of vital importance, not only to merchants interested in the Far Eastern business, but for all people connected with Eastern affairs in general. We agree with Mr. Takahata that something ought to be done in the direction of rectifying the present anomalous state of affairs.

A Chinese Aviator.

There is in London just now a young engineering student from China who has in two short years not only mastered the art of flight, but has invented a new type of biplane for use in his native country. Mr. T. K. Wong, who obtained his pilot's certificate at Brooklands last month, and is about to return to Peking, explained to a Daily News representative some of the details of the "dragon fly," as he has named his new machine. It is a tractor biplane, in which the principles established by the research work of the National Physical Laboratory have been embodied. The planes slope slightly backwards, an improvement which Mr. Wong says gives increased power of control. The machine, owing to the absence of killed workers in aviation construction in China, has been made as simple as possible, and for the same reason an English engine, the Isaacson, has been adopted. The French makes being considered too delicate for use in China.

Monument to a Jesuit Missionary.

The village of Piuthem, in Belgium, according to Le Soir, of Brussels, is about to erect a monument to one of the most remarkable Jesuit missionaries, Father Ferdinand Verbiest, who went out as a missionary to China in 1657. Father Verbiest's exploits are almost incredible. The Chinese, finding that he was specially skilled in mathematics, attached him to the Office of Longitudes at Peking. There he studied the Tartar language and translated Euclid's Elements. He constructed some remarkable astronomical instruments, which were used in the Peking Observatory until the time of the Boxer Rebellion, when they were removed by the Germans to Berlin. He died in 1688 amid universal sorrow. A magnificent funeral was granted him, and the Emperor himself composed an elegy on the dead man which was recited over his tomb. The tomb itself exists to this day in a cemetery at the gates of Peking.

DIARRHOEA AND ITS DANGERS.

During the semi-tropical summer weather, everyone always has before him the bugbear of stomach troubles in general and diarrhoea in particular. They are the result of a combination of the depressing influence of heat on the nervous system, and the prevalence of disease germs which thrive in the warmer temperature. It, therefore, behoves everyone to pay particular heed to eating light but exceedingly nutritious food which is absolutely pure and free from germs. These qualities are found in Sanatogen. A physician, writing in the Medical Press and Circular, states: "Sanatogen is a perfectly ideal food, as it is readily absorbed and also possesses nutritive qualities of the highest value."

Sanatogen's value, even in the most serious forms of diarrhoea which accompany typhoid fever, has been attested by the most eminent physicians writing in the leading medical journals of the world. A physician states in the Medical Times: "In the diarrhoea of typhoid fever follow the patient nothing but water and Sanatogen for three or four days, and have found the practice answered wonderfully well."

One reason for Sanatogen's value in this condition is pointed out by a doctor, writing in the General Practitioner, who says: "Sanatogen undergoes rapid and complete absorption in the healthy stomach, and a precisely similar result is seen in diseased conditions."

Diarrhoea lowers both the physical and nervous strength, and as Sanatogen is supreme in restoring the nervous and physical systems to their highest vigour, it soon revitalises the sufferer, who feels better than he has been for a very long time. For these reasons, everyone who suffers from diarrhoea should take Sanatogen, which can be obtained from all Chemists, without any delay.

PRINCE ARTHUR'S NEW HOME.

A Beautiful West-end House.

When Prince Arthur of Connaught and his bride return from their honeymoon in November next their Royal Highnesses will take up their residence in one of the finest houses in the West-end, the Prince having arranged, through Messrs. Wilson and Gray, to take a tenancy of 54, Mount Street, Park-lane, London. This mansion, which is the present residence of the Earl of Plymouth, overlooks Grosvenor House and the park. One of the many notable features of the house is a magnificent marble staircase modelled upon a 16th century Italian one in Florence. Halfway up on the loggia is a Burne-Jones fresco painted in the elusive blues and greys beloved by that artist. His "Interrupted Dream" is one of the two pictures which are the sole mural decoration of the ball-room. The white walls are set off by white moiré curtains draping the windows, and from the ceiling is suspended a priceless chandelier of old Venetian glass. This house was built by Lord Plymouth on the Italian palace plan, and there are certainly few palaces on the Continent with which it will not bear very favourable comparison. The reception rooms are of immense size. One is in pale blue and the other dark blue with ornate gildings and mouldings. Another room is enamelled in green, the furniture being covered in silk brocade of the same tint. The stucco frieze in this apartment is a superb piece of work, composed of loves and cherubs holding garlands all in deep relief some of the figures nearly three feet in height.

U. S. Orders Torpedoes.

London Aug. 23. The Standard says that the United States government has turned in a large order for improved White Head torpedoes. The torpedoes similar to those just supplied to the new Japanese cruiser Kongo, which have a range of from 10,000 to 12,000 yards at a speed averaging forty-eight knots an hour.

A DESERVED HONOUR.

A well-deserved honour has been conferred on Messrs. Newton, Chambers and Co., Limited, of Thorncliffe, near Sheffield, by the issue of a royal warrant appointing them manufacturers of disinfectants to His Majesty the King. The business was founded in the days of George III. by ancestors of the present principal proprietor. For nearly 120 years it has progressed from strength to strength until to day it employs upwards of 6000 workers in its coal mines, in its iron-foundries, and in the manufacture of Izal. A feature of the concern is the cordial understanding which exists between the directors and their workmen. As long ago as 1890 the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation and the National Insurance Acts were anticipated at Thorncliffe, and by the joint contributions of the company and their employees, benefits have been enjoyed for twenty-two years, and a reserve fund exceeding £50,000 has been accumulated. Newton, Chambers and Co., first turned their attention to the making of disinfectants in the days when carbolic acid was still regarded as satisfying the utmost requirements of sanitarians. It is constantly said of British manufacturers, that unlike their German competitors, they have been slow to adopt scientific methods. That reproach certainly does not apply to the makers of Izal, who for many years past have conducted patient research work, chemical, physical and biological, in their laboratories at Thorncliffe. In addition to their permanent staff they have also sought the advice of the ablest consulting chemists and bacteriologists in perfecting their products. It is worthy of note that the company were the first manufacturers of disinfectants to insist that the testing of germicides must be by bacteriological as well as chemical methods. On the occasion of a recent visit to Thorncliffe, Sir James Orichton-Browne, F.R.S., said that the country owed a debt of gratitude to Messrs. Newton, Chambers and Co., for converting what had once been regarded as a waste product into Izal, "that worthy and formidable weapon for battling against the bacillus." Judging by the extensive use of Izal in its various applications, medical, surgical, sanitary, veterinary and horticultural, the public have shown a proper appreciation of its merits.

YUAN SHIH-K'AI.

Stephen Harding contributes to the Review Dublin some very outspoken views on the President of the Chinese Republic, who he considers to be a prince of opportunists. The writer says: "In fact, in his own country, Yuan has never been trusted. He is a Mazarin rather than a Richelieu, and his successes have been gained not by force so much as by intrigue. During Kung Hsu's lifetime he was already accused of conspiring for the Throne, for among the complimentary scrolls hanging on his walls on the occasion of his fiftieth birthday, was one which read: 'May the Emperor live ten thousand years! May your excellency live ten thousand years!' The words wan sui, meaning ten thousand years, are not applicable to any but the Sovereign, so the inner meaning of the greeting was obvious. Mr. Harding pictures a politician who is prepared to be 'all things to all men,' with his eye on 'the main chance,' and accordingly already suspected by the revolutionaries as likely to betray their cause; this would not, however, clash with the writer's anticipations, for he says:—

But supporting that estimate of Yuan Shih-kai suggested in this article is correct, and that he should one day proclaim himself Emperor, need it be regarded as a misfortune? It is possible to combine ambition with statesmanship, and he has given abundant evidence that he will be no narrow-minded reactionary. "China has had many revolutions in the past, but she has always had an Emperor. It is a cardinal principle that if the reigning family betrays its trust

GIANT STRIDES.

An eminent evolutionist who is also a great lover of children suggested some time ago to the Curator of the Monkey House at the Zoo in Regent's Park that it would be a good thing to supply his charges with toys and appliances for play. The experiment was at once tried and has turned out an immense success. The large cages are now full of happy monkeys, romping on swings, rings and bars, and generally enjoying themselves with the toys provided. They are pleasanter to watch; it is hoped they will live longer (the monkey's life in captivity is very short—rarely more than a year) and, above all, with fewer "idle hands" they are less disposed to mischief amongst themselves or towards the spectators, whose bonnets and spectacles were formerly in peril if they ventured too close to the bars.

We have our own "little monkeys" and it is worth considering whether the above desirable results could not be obtained in their case also and by similar methods. We publish to-day a short account of a children's play-ground of the type that is springing up all over England, bringing joy not only to the small inhabitants of London, but also to the stunted dwellers in slum-land and (from a child's point of view) the hardly less undesirable rows of workmen's residences in the manufacturing districts. A plot of ground is not sufficient. Swings and see-saws are also necessary, with other simple delights. It is wonderful what pleasure such a simple thing as the tortuous trunk of a tumbled-down tree will give to the children. It is also essential that the ground be well drained or cemented and, in this climate, shade is required as soon as possible—we may mention that oak trees take about a century to grow. Lavatory accommodation and superintendence is of course desirable if funds will run to it.

Il n'y a que la premier qui conte and the plot of ground which the P.W.D. has provided at Kowloon may be regarded as a good beginning. A similar plot should be acquired for Hongkong and both should be properly fitted up in the manner suggested. The site must of course be central, because children cannot travel far for their amusements. There is a plot by the government offices which looks as though it could be extended and made suitable, or perhaps one of the lawns in the Botanical Gardens could be sacrificed. The Gardens themselves somewhat resemble a London Park in this respect. They are too formal, too primly respectable (though we have seen leap-frog played on the paths) with too much "keep off the grass" in their atmosphere to make a proper Elysium for children. A corner, however, might be set apart.

As our readers are aware, we have interested ourselves considerably in this matter and there is one further point we wish to emphasize. These proposed play-grounds are exclusively for Europeans and we do not think the Chinese children ought to be neglected. Their capacity for amusing themselves is very great, as any one who has watched them playing with kites or shuttle-cocks in the gutter or surreptitiously practising Chinese editions of "prisoner's base" or "Tom Tiddler's ground" on the Murray Barracks Parade will have noticed. The Chinese are so accustomed to work and be thrifty at the earliest opportunity that the play days of irresponsible youth are very short indeed. They ought to be correspondingly brighter than those of more fortunate children and they deserve a play-ground. It is undesirable, if not impossible, both from their own and their parents' point of view to have "mixed" play-grounds; so the Chinese should be given special play-grounds of their own.

If the Chinese were encouraged to play, the results might be very far-reaching. They evidently have it in them, when young at any rate, and that is the time to catch them. It might enable them to keep out of certain forms of mischief (not to say vice) and even in the not too distant future to hear off international trophies or produce a champion boxer. They have it in them: the eye, the patience, the resource. With a slight change of diet, the necessary stamina could be developed and it would be very pleasing if serious Chinese sport could have its genesis in a British Colony.

That perhaps is a matter somewhat removed from the subject of the present article. We should like to see this matter of the provision of suitable play-grounds for Europeans and Chinese children taken seriously in hand. Suitable land will never be more easy to provide than it is to-day. A good first step has been taken in the play-ground at Kowloon in the time for—giant strides.

Converts from Socialism.

We see from the Times, that the conversion from Socialism to Unionism of the well-known labour-leader, Mr. Charles Higham, has been followed by further conversions, including that of Mr. Ernest Haworth, financial secretary to the Independent Labour Party. Such men as these are rather big fish to land, and their having "turned" is a great score to the Unionists. As a matter of fact, such conversions are far commoner than the newspapers would have us believe. Not a year goes by but some dozens or hundreds of young men, usually of the more educated classes, pass out of the ranks of Socialism, back to the traditions of Conservatism in which, probably, they were reared. The truth is that Socialism appeals very strongly to the clever lad who is young enough, honest enough and enthusiastic enough to kick against snobbery, conventionality and unfairness; he knows that all is far from being right with the world, and the moment he comes into touch with the doctrines of Higher Socialism, he feels in them a cure for the world's ailments. Disillusionment comes earlier to some than to others; some—all honour to them—have lived and died staunch to their new faith; but, with most, sooner or later the gloss wears off and, on abandoning their Socialism, the best that they can say of it is that society is not ripe for its doctrines yet.

The "Dartmoor Shepherd."

Our old friend the "Dartmoor Shepherd" has got on the war-path again, for we see from the mail papers that he has been remanded on a charge of soliciting at Whitby. Most of our readers will recollect the amusingly unenviable position in which Mr. Winston Churchill placed himself, when Home Secretary, by ordering the release of this blameless person, from Portland. As a theorist in sociology and criminology, Mr. Churchill of course understood the glib-bird mind and temperament a great deal better than any prison governor could hope to do; but, alas for the triumph of mere practical experience over book knowledge and twopenny-halfpenny sentimentalism, our Dartmoor friend proved an irreclaimable blackguard, and was very soon "doing time" again—if our memory does not play us false, for stealing and pawing the parish Bible from a church! If Mr. Churchill had possessed a tithes of his father's inborn sense of humour, he would not—at the fearful instigation of Mr. Lloyd George—have "exercised" his powers as Home Secretary over the release of the gentle shepherd, and we should not be chortling to-day over the re-arrest of said shepherd.

The Tetrach and Insurance.

It is interesting to read, in one of to-day's wires, that the Tetrach—easily the best of this season's two-year-olds—has been insured at Lloyd's against inability to run in next year's Derby, at 25 per cent. The Tetrach is no much the best of the two-year-olds that bets of 3 to 1 against him in the Derby are already quoted. The man who insures against a breakdown, therefore, does so on the supposition that, if the horse runs at all, he will win. That is a pretty big supposition. Assuming, however, that a bet of £100 were now made, and that a policy for £200 were also taken out, the deal would work out like this:—If the horse won, the proposer would receive £200 on his policy, would lose £100 on his bet, and would have to deduct from the remaining £100 the premium of £50. He would, therefore, be just £50 to the good. The deal rests, of course, on faith in the horse's ability to win if it goes to the post; but, then, most bets rest on that basis.

Orang-Utans in Ireland.

The two young orangs brought from Borneo by Mr. P. O. Brackenbury have been purchased from their owner by the Zoological Society of Ireland, and went to Dublin last month, where they will join a chimpanzee lent to the Dublin Zoo by the London Society.

Messrs Carlowitz—a Correction.

With regard to the recent railway negotiations between the German firm of Carlowitz and the Governor of Yunnan, the Hamburger Nachrichten learns from a reliable source that the report is not correct in the form given, and that German contemporary sagaciously that its underlying object is to draw the attention of foreign competitors to negotiations with China that may be proceeding, and so interfere with their success.

A CHILDREN'S PLAY GROUND.

[SPECIAL ARTICLE]

About five years ago, the aristocracy of Kensington Gardens was horrified to learn that a charitable lady had offered to provide the funds to institute a children's play-ground. Kensington Gardens lie to the west of Hyde Park in London and its aristocracy is that of the bath chair, and the perambulator, crabbled age and joyous youth, with an unheeded smattering of middle-aged ratspayers who sail model-yachts in the Round Pond or exercise their dogs under the shady elms. They were still further horrified when they learnt that the Commissioners of His Majesty's Parks and Gardens had accepted the offer and allotted for the project a piece of ground at the West End a revolting idea to encourage "common children" to come and play in the Gardens and disturb the immemorial calm of their ordered paths and trim tulip beds with screams and shouting. It mattered not that they were screams of joy and shouts of laughter; far better that the benign Victorian atmosphere of the Gardens should not be violated.

Now, after five years, the inhabitants of Kensington have got used to the children's play-ground and it vies successfully with the Albert Memorial, the London Museum, the Dutch Gardens and the Orangery (where Messrs Tilling have lately placed a handsome cab and an old "knife-board" bus) as one of the sights of the Gardens. Americans with their Baedekers pause to contemplate, and aged rate-payers stop their both-chaired to glean welcome reminders of a frolicsome energy long forgotten. They witness in the flesh the joyful lessons that youth is always trying to teach old age and which, at the other end of the Gardens, are represented by poor Peter Pan—a marble.

And what causes all this concentrated delight? A play-ground. A little plot of ground tilled off and fitted with a few appurtenances to help children to enjoy themselves. A turret-clock with the grim warning for little people "Time Flies" surmounts a small shelter and a drinking fountain. There is a lavatory with a buxom caretaker always in attendance to look after the kiddies. Noddies to say she has hard work, but on Saturday afternoons there seem to be plenty of volunteer helpers there, and it is surprising how motherly some of the elder girls themselves are—little matrons of seven or eight summers.

There is a long range of swings, commencing with undangerous chairs, about a foot from the ground for baby, and ending with huge galloway-like erections on which the most audacious flights can be accomplished standing on the seat. There are a few see-saws and other appliances whose purpose is not so obvious. Then there is a sand-bath, with rather grimy sand, where the jaded London babies find at their doors the delights more dearly come by at Margate or Clacton-on-Sea. And, finally, there are the "giant strides." A tall post with a dozen ropes pendant from a ball-bearing summit, after the fashion of a may-pole. Frenzied hands seize the ends and the dizzy whirl begins. Small females fly out almost horizontal with display of long black stockings kicking frantically from disordered lingerie and shrieks such as those which accompany the descent of the water chute. Round they go, and when they stop from sheer exhaustion, other little hands rush for the ropes and the game begins again.

Such is the children's play-ground. It doesn't cost anything like so much as a cricket pavilion or a golf house and the joy it gives is not only out of all comparison as regards the numbers participating, but is also of a much intenser kind. And indeed more necessary. The joy of children is irrepressible and they will play if necessary in the gutter, though the gutter child seldom gives vent to the shrieks of delight that we hear in the play-ground. It is a sin to deny children their rights, just because they have no votes and are not rate payers. Never again will they retrieve their only solace for enjoyment.

In later life we speak metaphorically of honeymoon couples and such like being "as happy as a pair of children," but we know we are talking nonsense. The happy child will grow into the contented citizen and it is up to us to discharge our debt to posterity.

When all is said that wise men can;

When youth is fled, what's left to man?

ANOTHER PIRACY.

Hongkong Steamer held up and Looted.

Since the piratical attack on the Tai On, local ships proceeding riverwards have not been molested. It was hardly probable, however, that such a peaceful state of affairs would exist for long, and last night another piracy was added to the long list concerning local waters.

With a complement of passengers the Licorne, a vessel on the Hongkong-Wuchow run, left Hongkong at seven o'clock last night. She had also a fair general cargo. All went with customary smoothness until off Ki O, in Chinese waters, when the ship was rushed by a body—so far as can be ascertained—of seven or eight pirates. The men were armed with revolvers and knives. In consequence of their attack some of the passengers were injured, but fortunately none of them were killed. The wounds inflicted were knife and shot wounds. The pirates quickly set to work to make their task of looting easy, and commenced by fastening down the passengers in the holds. The postman was tied up as was the captain (Chinese). The way for plundering then being clear they took charge of the ship and turned her head towards Sam Pan Chau; at least that is the name by which the place is known to Europeans, though the Chinese term it Lung Yau.

The pirates secured two chests of opium, nine packages of general cargo, and about one thousand dollars in money. Having prepared their booty for carrying away, they unfasted two of the ship's boats, lowered them, and made away. It would be about 10.30 in the evening when they took charge of the ship, and they did not leave her until about one o'clock in the morning. She was deserted in the neighbourhood of Wong Mon.

After the pirates had got clear away, the crew got the ship under way and brought her back to Hongkong. When she arrived this morning, the Hon. Mr. Mol, Messrs. Captain Superintendent of Police, and Mr. King, the Assistant Superintendent of Police visited her and made the necessary investigations.

From enquiries made by the Telegraph, it appears that the attack was similar to the one on the Tai On, and was carried out by persons who had booked as passengers. It is contended that the arms and ammunition were taken on board during the day, when anyone has access to the ship, and that the robbers embarked in the ordinary course just before sailing. The police searchers searched all the passengers as they were about to board the steamer for a considerable time before sailing, but found no arms. It appears highly probable, therefore, that the pirates got their arms on board during the early part of the day. There is no information to hand at the time of going to press as to the identification or the capture of any of the pirates. It is conjectured, however, by those who know the river that they belong to the neighbourhood in which they deserted the ship.

They were apparently very careful as to the handling of the crew and the passengers, and, though they wounded several, they took care not to commit murder.

The authorities have the matter in hand and it is to be hoped that before many days have elapsed, obscure as the chances of catching the delinquents appear, it will be announced that, as in the Tai On piracy, some at least of the robbers have paid the penalty of their crime.

COCAINE CASE ECHO.

Mr Goldring and "Telegraph" Articles.

This afternoon in the Police Court, before Mr. F. A. Hazeland, Chan Tsan-mow was charged with being in unlawful possession of a quantity of morphine at Kowloon on September 11.

Prior to the case being called on, Mr. P. W. Goldring, of Messrs. Goldring and Russ, who appeared for the defence, called his Worship's attention to certain articles, which appeared in the Hongkong Telegraph on September 8 and 17. Mr. Goldring said:—(Verbatim) Your Worship, before Mr. Orme left, I called his attention to certain articles in the press and he informed me that he would mention the matter to your Worship to obtain your Worship's opinion of the article that appeared the day before.

Mr. Hazeland:—I have not seen the article. Mr. Goldring:—If that is so, if your worship wishes—and I mentioned also to Mr. Orme the very stringent and I might say, malicious article that appeared in the same paper—the Hongkong Telegraph—on the night of Mr. Duncan's conviction, which tended, to my way of thinking, to confirm the very improper method of commenting on a case sub judice. It was well known to the press at that time that two cases were pending at the time.

Mr. Hazeland:—But this is morphine!

Mr. Goldring:—Well, it is the same thing, your Worship; the article covers both. I don't mean to say that there is no difference between morphine and cocaine, but there were two cases pending and it was then alleged that, of the two cases, one involved the other, and my feeling is this, that the press should not, and that they are guilty of contempt of court in commenting on the case in the way they did that day, when they knew Mr. Duncan's case was coming on, and when they knew there were also other cases pending. And the press knew very well that the present case was pending. I am asking for an expression of opinion from the bench, from the senior Magistrate of the colony, as to whether it was or was not proper. And also, as I pointed out to Mr. Orme at the time, I do not do this upon my own responsibility, but because so many people pointed out to me that it was very bad when such cases were pending. That is to say, they were sub judice.

And further articles—if your worship please, I shall be happy to send copies along—which appeared immediately after Mr. Duncan had been convicted—the very day—although they knew perfectly well, and it was intimated in Court that we had applied for a stated case.

[Mr. Duncan was convicted on September 16th.]

On September 17th, notice of appeal was filed against the decision given on the 16th September.

18th Hongkong Telegraph

"Extra" reprint:—Mr. Goldring, of Messrs. Goldring and Russ, has written to Mr. Geoffrey Norman Orme, asking him to state a case in connection with the morphine and cocaine conviction imposed upon George Leopold Duncan of Messrs. McEwen, Frickel & Co. Editor H.K.T.]

In a colony like this it seems to me that some restraint should be put upon the press. The only alternative we have is to go to the Chief Justice and apply for a commitment for contempt of court which is a difficult and lengthy process, and it appears a little invidious on our part if that is done, because it has not happened since the days of Mr. Fraser-Smith, who was connected with the Hongkong Telegraph. I would ask your worship to take into consideration whether an intemperate article like that, a grossly inaccurate article like that following a conviction, when they knew a case was coming on and followed up even with more intemperate articles, should appear in the paper of this colony.

FIRE IN LARGEST LINER.

Callant Officer of the Imperator
Loses His Life.

New York, August, 28.
The Hamburg-American liner Imperator, the largest steamer afloat, which arrived here last evening with 3,000 passengers, was the scene early this morning of a fire which raged for five hours and was not extinguished until over two million gallons of water had been poured into her hold and provision compartment, says the New York correspondent of the Daily Mail.

The fire was discovered at 3.30 a.m. in the provision compartment, one deck below the waterline, just beneath the second-class quarters. Soon the whole stern half of the vessel was filled with dense volumes of smoke. Squads of sailors, under the command of Second Officer Gobrecht, wearing fire helmets, were sent below to fight the flames. Forty-five of them were driven back to the deck, where they fell senseless. Mr. Gobrecht's air tube connected with his helmet became twisted and he was suffocated.

It was Gobrecht who first discovered the fire. He was standing on the bridge when, looking through a glass-covered box, he saw a little puff of smoke coming from one of the thirty-three tubes, each of which is connected with a different part of the ship and acts as a silent fire alarm. Instantly he touched the button closing the bulkhead doors adjoining the compartment indicated; then he touched another button which automatically directed powerful jets of steam into the burning provision rooms.

1,500 Passengers Landed.

While the fire was at its height alarm prevailed among the 1,500 steerage passengers, who, soon after dawn, were ordered ashore with their belongings. They were massed on deck while two fireboats, aided by the fire brigade from Hoboken, flooded the lower-deck hold. An extraordinary sight met the gaze of suburbanites as they crossed the ferries to New York this morning: the biggest vessel in the world emitting thick clouds of smoke from dozens of portholes.

When the flames were extinguished at nine o'clock the vessel had a list estimated at 15 deg. I was informed, however, that though there was 35 ft. of water in the hold the departure of the vessel for Europe would in all probability not be delayed. Later it was admitted that, owing to the destruction of most of the provisions, it might not be possible for her to leave before Sunday. The walls of the cabins and passages in the second-class and the decorations in the dining-room are blackened. No exact estimate of the damage has yet been made, but it is believed the damage to the decorations alone represents a loss of £10,000.

Mr. Gobrecht's body was recovered by members of the Hoboken Fire Brigade. Two sailors who were at first reported dead, were subsequently found and conveyed to hospital. Mr. Gobrecht's body was found, according to one of his fellow-officers, wedged in the doorway of the provision room which adjoins coal bunker No. 2. The door had closed from above as Gobrecht was going into the bunker, and he was pinioned by it and suffocated.

May Command American Pacific Fleet.

Rear Admiral Austin M. Knight, commanding the Atlantic reserve fleet, with the Tennessee as his flagship, is said to be slated to succeed Rear Admiral Reginald Fairfax Nicholson as commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet. This information reaches Manila says the Manila Times, through private correspondence from Washington, and is not in any sense official. Admiral Nicholson has been in command of the fleet nearly two years, having succeeded Admiral Mordock. But little of his time has been spent in the Philippines, the stirring events in China, during his command having necessitated the presence of himself and his flagship in northern waters.

MORPHINE POSSESSION.

Fine of $2,000 Imposed.

This afternoon at the Police Court, before Mr. F. A. Hazeland, Chan Tsun-mow was charged with being in unlawful possession of 111 lbs of morphine at Kowloon, on September 11.

Mr. Hutchinson prosecuted and Mr. F. W. Goldring, of Messrs. Goldring and Russ, defended.

A boatman said he was engaged by the defendant to carry five cases purporting to be sardines from the Kowloon Godowns to Hongkong, on September 4. He said he would take the cases for eighty cents. He went with the defendant to the godown and the latter asked a man if the cases of a certain mark had arrived and the man replied in the affirmative. The Godown man asked the defendant if the document (bill of lading) had been signed and the defendant replied no. Defendant then gave the bill of lading to witness and he went to the office and had them signed.

Mr. Goldring then said that after further consideration of the case and consultation with his interpreter, he had decided to plead guilty and leave the fine entirely in His Worship's hands. He did not think the reduction would amount to much, and it meant going back over a long chain. There were so many wheels with in wheels in cases of that sort—one man said it was someone else, and the other man said it was someone else still. Anyhow, his client had to suffer for the possession, or taking the delivery. He did not wish to continue because he thought the case would last a week and he did not wish to waste the time of the Court.

His Worship said that the Court was quite willing to go on; he could not put it down to the Court.

Mr. Goldring said he did not wish to, but he hoped that something would be eventually done by the proper people.

A fine of $2,000 was imposed.

ALLEGED DANGEROUS RIFLE.

Chinese Newspaper in Trouble.

Before Mr. Wood, at the Police Court, this afternoon, Chan Chung Shan, manager of the Chinese newspaper Shat Po, was charged with publishing in his newspaper certain matter calculated to incite tumult or disorder in China and incite persons to crime in China.

Mr. P. M. Hodgson, Crown Solicitor, prosecuted and Mr. F. X. D'Almada defended.

In opening, Mr. Hodgson said he would call evidence to prove that an article was printed in the Shat Po, calculated to incite persons to commit crime in China.

Lo Kam Chak, an official translator, produced a copy of the paper in which the article appeared, together with a certified translation.

The latter was read by Mr. Hodgson, and was headed "Five reasons for which the Army-for the extermination of Yuan is sure to conquer." Amongst other things the article stated: "New the big band Yuan's numerous crimes have excited the hatred of the whole of one nation. Therefore a rising was first promoted in Kiangsi against him."

Thus the Army for the extermination of Yuan became very huge and an explanation was only given by them of the reason for which the brigand was to be exterminated. They all longed to march to Chihli, defeat all the troops in the North of the (Yellow) River, and throw him into prison in the same manner as Napoleon was isolated in a lonely island, or behold him in the same way as I, the Emperor, was executed on the platform. To our disappointment Heaven suffered Yuan's crimes to grow heavier, and therefore Chiang (Tak Tsun) and Yung (Tak Wang) were fickle in their resolution (and betrayed us).... Now we are apprehensive that untrustworthy scholars and ignorant people, being bribed (by Yuan) with money or misled by idle rumors may hesitate and sit on the fence, and may even become as faithful to the brigand as dogs (to their masters) and prove themselves the bane of the Republic, neglecting the right course and taking up the wrong one instead."

Defendant was committed for trial, Mr. F. X. D'Almada reserving his defence.

LOCAL SPORT.

Hongkong Football League Meeting.

The annual general meeting of the Hongkong Association Football League was held yesterday afternoon at the offices of Messrs. Shewan, Tomes and Co., when Mr. R. F. Long presided over a moderate attendance of representatives from the various clubs concerned.

The report and statements of accounts showed that there was a balance in hand of $30.94. The sum of $16, referees' fees due by the Departmentals for the season 1911 and 1912 was written off. The report stated, inter alia that the matches in connection with the first and second division were carried through with great success, the first division being won by the R.G.A. regimental team and the second by the 88th R.G.A.

On the motion of the chairman seconded by Ship's Corporal Monague of H. M. S. Tamar the report and statement of accounts were adopted.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mr. R. Hancock; vice-president, Mr. F. W. Eager; hon. secretary, Mr. A. S. Ellis; League Committee, Messrs R. F. Long, Sgt. Wilson, Spiller, Obiel, Writer Smith, H.M.S. Tamar, and Corp. Coxon, R.E.

It was decided that the entries for the league should close on October 10, excepting in the cases of the naval teams, when an extension would be granted until November 1, on which date the season was to commence.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

LOG BOOK.

A New Chinese Dredger.

The Chung Hwa, a sea going suction dredger, which has been built by Werf Gusto, Firm A. F. Smulders, Schiedam (Holland), to the order of the Hai-Ho Conservancy Commission, Tientsin, for the dredging works at the Taku Bar, has left for her destination under her own steam. The vessel is 38 metres long by 10 metres beam, and is capable of sucking at a depth of 8 metres. She can discharge the spoil into barges, moored alongside, or force it ashore by means of a pipe line to a distance of 2,000 metres. The craft is equipped with two compound engines of 250 i.h.p. each for navigating purposes, and with a compound engine of 500 i.h.p. for the two sand pumps, as well as two boilers.

India's Shipping Trade.

A Blue-Book dealing with the "Moral and Material Progress of India" gives a table showing the proportion of the total foreign sea-borne trade in private merchandise passing through each of the five leading ports at the beginning and end of the decade. These ports between them account for practically the whole of the imports and more than nine-tenths of the exports.

The evidence of progress is to be found rather in the tonnage than in the number of vessels, the total figures under the latter head including a large and variable number of small craft. The vessels classed as native craft, which are all sailing ships, though numerous, contributed in 1911-12 less than one per cent. of the tonnage. The proportion of steam tonnage increased steadily from about 96 per cent. in 1901-02 to 98.7 per cent. in 1911-12. In 1901-02 the total number of ships included 479 small Arab sailing ships, which thus took the first place, so far as numbers went, among foreign ships. These have practically disappeared from the returns since 1906. The vessels that enter and leave the ports of India for the most part fly the British flag; the tonnage under that flag, including the Indian register, was about 81 per cent. in 1901-02 and 79 per cent. in 1911-12. Among factors of great importance affecting Indian trade a prominent place must be given to freights. It is a fact of some consequence that the exports not only exceed the imports in value, but also consist chiefly of raw material, and are thus more bulky than the manufactured articles received. On the whole, the general tendency of freight rates has in recent years been downwards, but since 1908 they have risen somewhat.

The N.Y.K. s.s. Tottori Maru.

There has been launched at Port Glasgow the steamer Tottori Maru, which has been built to the order of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, Tokyo, Japan. The vessel, which is of the following dimensions, length 423 ft. 6 in., breadth 56 ft., depth 31 ft. 3 in., with a gross tonnage of 5,800, will be engaged at Greenock. She has been built to the highest class at Lloyd's and is intended for the general carrying trade of the owners.

New Dutch Steamer for the East.

On August 21 there was launched at Port Glasgow the steel screw steamer Radja, which is intended for pilgrim transport and general trade with the East. She is owned by the Stoomvaart Maatschappij "Nederland"

COCAINE CASE ECHO.

His Worship:—Well if you send me the papers.

Mr. Goldring:—I may mention that it is no feeling of my own or of Mr. Duncan's or of my client in the second case, but because people have represented to me that it appears grossly unfair that articles of that kind should appear.

Mr. Hazeland:—Well, send me the paper.

Mr. Goldring:—Yes I will, if your Worship please. I hope you don't think I have gone too far, but all I have told you, I have mentioned to Mr. Orme on two occasions.

Mr. Hazeland:—He mentioned the matter to me and I did not see any connection with the case at all.

Mr. Goldring:—Well particularly having regard to the opening address of the Crown Solicitor and his reply on behalf of the Crown.

Mr. Hazeland:—Well just send it to me.

Reprint Hongkong Telegraph, September 8, 1913.

Mr. Goldring (Verbatim).—

Mr. Goldring:—Your Worship, before the case proceeds, I should like to draw your worship's attention to an article which appeared in the Hongkong Telegraph headed "Cocaineism," which appeared in Saturday's issue. I don't know whether your Worship has read it but it seems to me that I should ask your Worship to express the opinion, which I feel, that it is a most improper article to be written at a time when there are two important cocaine cases to come before the court. It is absolutely improper and I feel inclined to suggest that it is most malicious, coming as it does at this very moment I also say that it is to a large extent inaccurate; the premises are inaccurate and the deductions are absolutely untrue. And when your Worship has read it I feel sure your Worship will express your disapproval to the press, when a case of this kind comes on, in publishing an article of this kind. I have had several people draw my attention to it, and they have requested me to mention it. It has been commented on strongly in the Colony, having regard to this case and to another which is before the courts.

His Worship:—As far as it might effect the justice—

Mr. Goldring:—I am asking your Worship to notice it and to give an opinion as to whether it is a proper article to publish.

His Worship:—It is a comment on a case which is still before the courts?

Mr. Goldring:—It has sailed just not quite close enough to the wind to make it so. I have no axe to grind, but many people pointed out to me the effect it had upon them and that I was justified in mentioning it. I don't ask your Worship to express any opinion to-day; if your Worship would do it at any time. It is rather long and I thought that it would have been taken from an American newspaper rather than from a Hongkong newspaper.

His Worship:—Don't see that it bears upon the case.

Mr. Goldring:—If your Worship will read the concluding paragraphs I think there is sufficient innuendo there to bring it to bear upon this and other cases, and I think it would be well if your Worship would consult with Mr. Hazeland on the matter. I might say the public have felt on the matter and the article is one that might influence a jury.

His Worship:—I will consider the point.

Reprint Hongkong Telegraph, September 17, 1913.

Mr. Goldring (Verbatim).—

Mr. Goldring:—I addressed the magistrate as follows:—If your Worship please I would like to ask if you have seen the senior Magistrate as to whether the article I called attention to in the Hongkong Telegraph, was in order, as in view of subsequent articles published in the press, I had no alternative but to think it was malicious.

His Worship:—With regard to the case in question I have not considered there was anything objectionable appeared; therefore I did not answer your application made in the first instance.

Mr. Goldring:—I ask your Worship to refer the matter to the senior Magistrate in view of the case fixed for the 25th. of a similar nature, in order that he may express an opinion since you are leaving.

His Worship:—I will mention the matter to Mr. Hazeland. (Verbatim report.)

Mr. Goldring then went into the office and filed notice of appeal against the decision given yesterday.

Mr. Hazeland:—What happened to your case Mr. Hazeland?

CHINA STATION.

More New Officers for Hongkong.

The following appointments have been made at the Admiralty:—

Commander M. Baillie-Hamilton, to the Triumph, on recommissioning, to date August 21. Lieutenant C.P. O'Connell (as navigating officer), O.M.L. Scott, O.A. Browne, B.O. Porter, and J.G. E. Davies, to the Merlin, on recommissioning, undated.

Royal Marines R.M.L.I.—O.L.E. Mantz, to the Triumph, for passage to the Tamar (sic) on joining. Lieutenant R.M.L.I.—F.H. Thomas, to the Triumph, for passage to China, for the Tamar (sic) as instructor of musketry Hongkong.

Lieut. Francis Allen Newton Cromie, who has been appointed to succeed Commander Archdale in command of the Submarine Flotilla at Hongkong, passed the whole of his time as a naval cadet and midshipman on the China Station, in the Barfleur, flagship of Rear-Admiral C.C. Penrose Fitzgerald and Sir James Bruce, from May, 1898, to the end of 1901. He was mentioned in dispatches for his services at Tientsin in June, 1900, during the Boxer outbreak, and has the medal for this.

Japan and California. A Washington telegram states that Viscount Chinda, the Japanese Ambassador, on 26th ult. delivered to Mr. Bryan, Secretary of State, Japan's latest reply on the California land question. It contained nothing in the nature of an ultimatum. On the contrary, its tone indicated that negotiations might continue for several months.

All Japanese Officers. With all Japanese officers and crew in charge, the swift Japanese mail liner Hongkong Maru, Captain Shosaku Togo, will arrive in port on Sunday morning, September 21, according to a cablegram received by E. Langer and Galinger, local agents for the Togo Kisen Kaisha. All the officers of the trim ocean-going Japanese. Besides Captain Togo, who modestly denies any relationship with the famous admiral, the personnel of the vessel is as follows: chief officer, K. Okazaki; chief engineer, Y. Fujishima; purser, O. Matsumoto, and Dr. Nakai, the ship's surgeon. Although only in the early thirties, Captain Togo, who holds the distinction of being the first of his race to bring a liner across the Pacific from the Golden Gate to Corregidor, has had a wide experience as a navigator. After serving as a commander of a troopship during the Russo-Japanese war, he was chief officer on various steamers, and then became skipper on a steamer running from Japan to South America. The one person at the Hongkong Maru who speaks excellent English, but with a tinge of Bowery slang, is the chief steward, who lived in New York—Galleneus.
